

Strategies for Ranching On a Landscape with Wolves

Thursday Jan. 10th – Friday Jan. 11th, 2019 8:30 am – 5:30 pm
Halfway Lions Club
235 Lion St., Halfway, Oregon

This two-day seminar combines the fields of ranching and wildlife management to seek creative ways to minimize livestock losses due to wolf depredation in large pastures and open range. The workshop leaders are Andrew and Hilary Anderson, co-founders of the Tom Miner Basin Range Rider Project. The Andersons are third-generation cattle producers successfully ranching on the outskirts of Yellowstone National Park where wolves and grizzly are a regular factor of life.

Participants will learn about the many proactive techniques ranchers can use to tackle tough issues – including understanding wolf behavior, range riding, low-stress livestock handling, carcass management, profitability of different management regimes, and community-based problem solving. This is an opportunity to find something that helps the profitability and resiliency of your operation. There will be practical advice and inspiration that may help your ranch and community address complex issues on the land. There will be an optional after dinner discussion on Thursday.

Cost: $50.00 includes the 2-day seminar, 2 lunches, and Thursday dinner

Limited to 50 people. Registration is required by Jan 5th, 2019 at <http://www.unitedcommunitypartners.org/strategic-ranching>

or contact Shella DelCurto at mightyadashin@gmail.com or (541) 519-5563

Scholarship questions: Roblyn Brown, ODFW roblyn.brown@state.or.us or (541) 962-1850

Coming from out of town? – Pine Valley Lodge (541) 742-2027 (<http://www.pvlodge.com/>) is holding a block of rooms in the Main Place ($45-$65/night) and Bed & Breakfast rentals ($93/night) until 1/5/18. Please mention the Strategic Ranching workshop to get these rates. Assistance may be available to help cover lodging costs, roblyn.brown@state.or.us

This workshop is a project of United Community Partners (a community development 501c3 fiscal sponsor in Halfway) and is supported by: local livestock producers and businesses, Oregon State University Extension Service, Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, and Defenders Of Wildlife.